DAY TWO

MONDAY, 26 MARCH 2018
13th CII- EXIM BANK Conclave on India Africa Project Partnership
25 - 27 March 2018; Taj Diplomatic Enclave, Sardar Patel Marg, New Delhi

0930-1100 hrs : Round Table on “Financing for Indian Investments in Africa”
(Durbar Hall)

Access to trade finance and finance for infrastructure remains a forbidding constraint despite the recent growth in the banking and finance sector in some parts of Africa. There is still a huge demand-supply gap in trade finance on the continent. Enhanced access to trade finance will be critical to success and profitability of SMEs and MSMEs in Africa. The real challenge will be to aid the process of preparing viable and bankable projects, through adequate consultancy support. Buoyed by reforms taken by many African country and projections of steady economic growth, the narrative of Africa has changed from risks of investing in the region to the risks of not being there and managing those risks.

The session aims to discuss on:
➢ The role of DFIs – national and pan -African – in plugging the financing gap?
➢ How can EXIM Bank support these DFIs and their work?
➢ Can EXIM Bank and AfDB explore methods of co-financing to increase finance flows and enable credit? If yes, how would they work?

Agricultural modernisation and value-addition are a core objective of Africa’s Agenda 2063. India’s agricultural partnership with African countries has been channelized through LOCs, research collaborations and enhanced private sector investment. India’s development assistance, Triple A technologies (appropriate, affordable and adaptable), capacity building initiatives and supply of improved seeds and cost-effective agricultural machinery can help raise agricultural productivity and augment food output in many African countries.

The session aims to look for answer questions like:
➢ How can we promote greater G2G and B2G interactions to take partnership in this sector to the next level?
➢ How can there be more collaboration in developing sustainable agricultural practices and climate-resilient agriculture.
➢ How can we promote greater investment in agriculture in Africa by Indian companies?

This has opened new opportunities especially in areas of education, health, IT, telecom, entertainment & culture industries. The proliferation of tech and fintech start-ups in India and Africa, led by young entrepreneurs, offer new possibilities for business collaborations.

To actualise the full potential of services trade,

➢ How can African countries address issues of high-cost of trading in services and high cost of visa and work permits in many countries which hinder the movement of health and education professionals

With India’s energy needs set to double in the next 6-7 years to sustain its growing economy, Africa is poised to be critical to the country’s energy security. Africa, on the other hand, despite many countries being rich in energy resources, suffer from a massive crunch, with only 24% of people in sub-Saharan African having access to electricity. Forging a broad-based energy partnership between India and Africa, including in areas of hydrocarbons and renewables, is therefore going to bring tangible benefits to both sides. Looking ahead, the next big frontier in India-Africa cooperation is going to be affordable and clean energy. India is uniquely equipped to forge a win-win partnership with Africa in renewables to promote transition to low-carbon economy.

This session aims to address the following questions:

➢ How can the International Solar Alliance be further strengthened to meet the emerging needs of India and Africa?
➢ Can the projected surge in renewable energy provide win-win opportunities for Indian and African companies to forge joint ventures to develop alternative energy like solar, wind, hydropower, and biomass?
➢ How can India and Africa learn from each other’s drive for energy inclusion through rural electrification projects?
