1800-1900 hrs : SPECIAL OPENING SESSION
(Durbar hall) "India-Africa : Creating Partnership for South South Cooperation"

India and Africa together account for a huge market of 2.2bn people with a combined GDP of more than US$3trillion. India is Africa's fourth-largest trading partner and a significant investor across the continent. Bilateral trade touched US$57bn in 2011, and is targeted to reach US$90bn by 2015. Over the years the bilateral cooperation has diversified across several sectors such as agriculture, education, health, skill building and infrastructure. With this growing momentum, can India and Africa further deepen their partnerships in various spheres and create a new platform for South-South cooperation? How this enhanced partnership can act a catalyst for larger South-South cooperation in the areas of trade and investment?

PLENARY SESSION IX
“India’s Global Emergence : Partnering Africa’s Development”

The big story of the last decade has been India’s arrival on the global scene. The country has broken-free of the low growth trap. It began to mark its presence as a player of significance in the global economy and subsequently acquired prominent place in global economic and trade governance. As India always championed the cause of Africa’s development, can this new found position of India help in drawing greater attention of world towards Africa’s developmental needs? How India can step-up its own development cooperation in Africa? Can Indian private sector invest more in Africa? How do African nations perceive towards India in its new found role?
